Online Seminar on “Structured Products - An Innovative Approach to Commodity Derivatives”

Tuesday August 17, 2021 from 5.00 p.m. to 6.30 p.m.

Dear Sir/ Madam,

As a large producer of a wide variety of commodities India has a long history of commodity trading. Commodity markets are driven by a host of factors, global and domestic. Price volatility is an integral part of the market dynamics. For hedgers the Futures market provides a time-tested tool to manage price risks. At the same time, it gives rise to opportunities for investment in commodity derivatives.

As market regulator, SEBI has taken a number of steps to deepen and widen the commodity derivatives market. As a result, structured products to meet stakeholders' specific needs are now available.

To discuss the nature of the structured products and their benefits, IMC Chamber of Commerce and Industry in association with NCDEX IPFT is organizing an Online seminar. The details are as follows

Topic: ‘Structured Products - An Innovative Approach to Commodity Derivatives’
